

Faculty Review of Open eTextbooks

The California Open Educational Resources Council has designed and implemented a faculty review process of the free and open etextbooks showcased within the California Open Online Library for Education (www.cool4ed.org). Faculty from the California Community Colleges, the California State University, and the University of California were invited to review the selected free and open etextbooks using a rubric. Faculty received a stipend for their efforts and funding was provided by the State of California, the William and Flora Hewlett Foundation, and the Bill and Melinda Gates Foundation.

California OER Council eTextbook Evaluation Rubric

CA Course ID: JOUR 100

Subject Matter (30 possible points)	N/A (0 pts)	Very Weak (1pt)	Limited (2 pts)	Adequate (3pts)	Strong (4 pts)	Superior (5 pts)
Is the content accurate, error-free, and unbiased?					X
Does the text adequately cover the designated course with a sufficient degree of depth and scope?		X
Does the textbook use sufficient and relevant examples to present its subject matter?			X

Does the textbook use a clear, consistent terminology to present its subject matter?					X
Does the textbook reflect current knowledge of the subject matter?				X
Does the textbook present its subject matter in a culturally sensitive manner? (e.g. Is the textbook free of offensive and insensitive examples? Does it include examples that are inclusive of a variety of races, ethnicities, and backgrounds?)					X

Total Points: 18 out of 30

Please provide comments on any aspect of the subject matter of this textbook:

- The textbook was written by a group of "academics and librarians across Australia and New Zealand" in a single weekend; fifteen authors are listed. Not surprisingly, the textbook reads more like a good-quality wiki than a strongly unified and complete work. It has 51 numbered and titled chapters, but most are two to three pages in length and so lack the depth to comprise a usable undergraduate textbook.
- Content tends to the critical/cultural, with the chapters organized into four sections: Reading Media Texts, Culture and Contexts, Production and Structures, and Audiences & Identity.
- Writing generally is of good quality, so the work could be useful as a supplementary or review source for the topics covered.
- One consideration for CA students is that examples are largely from New Zealand popular culture and so may not be familiar.
- Images: Limited in number, but appropriate
- Text bank: No

Instructional Design (35 possible points)	N/A (0 pts)	Very Weak (1pt)	Limited (2 pts)	Adequate (3pts)	Strong (4 pts)	Superior (5 pts)
Does the textbook present its subject materials at appropriate reading levels for undergrad use?					X
Does the textbook reflect a consideration of different learning styles? (e.g. visual, textual?)		X
Does the textbook present explicit learning outcomes aligned with the course and curriculum?		X
Is a coherent organization of the textbook evident to the reader/student?					X
Does the textbook reflect best practices in the instruction of the designated course?			X
Does the textbook contain sufficient effective ancillary materials? (e.g. test banks, individual and/or group activities or exercises, pedagogical apparatus, etc.)		X
Is the textbook searchable?					X

Total Points: 17 out of 35

Please provide comments on any aspect of the instructional design of this textbook:

- The work is mostly text with occasional images.
- Each short chapter ends with discussion questions.

Editorial Aspects (25 possible points)	N/A (0 pts)	Very Weak (1pt)	Limited (2 pts)	Adequate (3pts)	Strong (4 pts)	Superior (5 pts)
Is the language of the textbook free of grammatical, spelling, usage, and typographical errors?					X
Is the textbook written in a clear, engaging style?					X
Does the textbook adhere to effective principles of design? (e.g. are pages laid out and organized to be clear and visually engaging and effective? Are colors, font, and typography consistent and unified?)			X
Does the textbook include conventional editorial features? (e.g. a table of contents, glossary, citations and further references)			X
How effective are multimedia elements of the textbook? (e.g. graphics, animations, audio)			X

Total Points: 14 out of 25

Please provide comments on any editorial aspect of this textbook.

- The textbook has a table of contents and a glossary, but few citations and no list of works for further reading.

Usability (25 possible points)	N/A (0 pts)	Very Weak (1pt)	Limited (2 pts)	Adequate (3pts)	Strong (4 pts)	Superior (5 pts)
Is the textbook compatible with standard and commonly available hardware/software in college/university campus student computer labs?					X
Is the textbook accessible in a variety of different electronic formats? (e.g. .txt, .pdf, .epub, etc.)						X
Can the textbook be printed easily?					X
Does the user interface implicitly inform the reader how to interact with and navigate the textbook?					X
How easily can the textbook be annotated by students and instructors?		X

Total Points: 18 out of 25

Please provide comments on any aspect of access concerning this textbook.

Overall Ratings	Not at all (0 pts)	Very Weak (1 pt)	Limited (2 pts)	Adequate (3 pts)	Strong (4 pts)	Superior (5 pts)

Overall Comments

If you were to recommend this textbook to colleagues, what merits of the textbook would you highlight?

- Good quality of the writing; clear summary of the somewhat scattershot topics the authors chose to cover.

What areas of this textbook require improvement in order for it to be used in your courses?

- Overall design and structure of content: Needs coherence and unity
- Coverage of topics: Needs greater depth
- Multimedia: Needs more images and better visual design
- Examples: Should be replaced with those that would be familiar to CA students
